Found the World on His Tour

Last summer Lord Northeliffe, noted London editor and publisher and one of the keenest of observers, started on a tour of the world to study symptoms and conditions. Recently, he arrived at Monte Carlo after completing his tour, and a Post-Dispatch staff correspondent spent four days with him there during which he dictated a remarkabl interesting series of observations covering political and social activities in every land he visited. He found the entire East in ferment against the rule of the white man, he saw signs of a new menace on the horizon of civilization in the form of a rising new tide of Moham-medan conquest and he saw the dominion of England and the colonial Powers (including America's) in the East reeling and staggering under the uprising of epinion stirred by President Wilson's battle cry of "self determination." The report of this remarkably interesting interview will appear exclusively in

All the 1650 automatic clocks in the city are operated from a central station in the telegraph company's office, 514 Olive street. One-third of the number remained on duty, and, by an unlucky chance, the third included the clocks in the Western Union office, so that the trouble was not discovered until today, when subscribers began to complain.

River Trips.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. T HERE was a very interesting article in the magazine section of your Sunday paper a few weeks ago, entitled, "The Gool Old Days on the River." Most every day there appear in the newspapers articles and editorials on the revival of river traffic. However, it seldom, if ever, refers to passenger traffic, always freight.

I have in the past four years made four different trips on the Mississippi River, so of them branching off in the Illinois, Ohio and Tennessee rivers, last ing from two to seven days, and costing from $3.50 up to $30, with meals and berth included. And let me tell you, the meals were excellent. And as for courtes shown by officers and crew of the boat, I doubt if those of the old days had any thing on the present.

The terminus of the Tennessee River trip is the historic battlefield of Shilo. At ell points of interest and the main landpassengers are given time off the boat to see the sights. Half of this boat on each trip is reserved for passengers coming down from Chicago and other Northern points.

I believe, Mr. Editor, if you will give some space to what is left of liver traffic along with what there was to river traffic. the revival would be greatly hastened.

During the summer months all papers

H AVELOCK ELLIS thinks husbands must be dragged from their thrones before we can have anything like domestic happiness. We were not aware that husbands thrones, but Havelock says so. They have occupied them for centuries, and however much it may seem that the wife rules the roost the husband is indisputably king. Not, bless his heart, that he means to be king; it is only that the scepter is placed in his hand by a long line of male antecedents, everyone of whom was in his day a king.

This will surprise the women more than it not past finding out by women. We all know what happens when the husband is found out. It seems to matter little upon what score he is We speak of it merely as found out, which it quite sufficient All husbands play a part, as in love we must all play a part. To step out of the part is to step off

Does Havelock Ellis really want husbands and wives to find out which of them is ruler in the home and by what mysterious means the family is governed? We hope not. It would be the end of the home, as it is the end of all appiness among human beings when the respective authority of each is defined. hink man is less than a king in his home. He is in about the position Andy Mellon is in at Washington. His not to rule, but eternally to figure how things are to come out. Dis-turbed at this profound equation, he may seem fierce; but it must be realized that the strain upon him exceeds any strain ever put upon a king. Mr. Havelock Ellis talks like a without a family, and he seems talking about people without families. We are afraid he is making trouble for husbands, who have trouble enough.

Br'er Martin, who is on his stride again in the editorial columns of Life, thinks we may have to move the Bartholdi statue away from New York and set it up in England. He points out that England is fast becoming the home of liberty, and cites her liberation of Ireland and Egypt, with her proposed liberation of India, as the best liberalizing tendency to be observed anywhere in the world at this time.

Most of us will find ourselves a bit out of breath over a proposal to yield the statue of liberty to someone else, but upon second liberty to someone else, thought, there is a bigness in the idea which cannot fail to appeal to our sense of sportsmanship. We have always thought of the statue as our own and immovable, but would we wish to have it if this were no longer the home of liberty? Certainly not, particularly if liberty were finding a better home in some other part of the world and had found it necessary to go there.

The Br'er we imagine, is about to evolve here great idea. He has not yet worked it out. but he probably will. We have the Nobel prizes, and we are to have the prizes of the Wilson Foundation. In that same spirit we might very well offer the Bartholdi statue. In England has clearly won it at the present time, as the Br'er thinks, it would be as unsportsmanlike to withhold it from her as it would be to mair tain wrongfully possession of a cup. There is not enough competition for the statue. own feeling of security in its possession has made us careless and slothful. Losing it for a while, we might easily retrieve that zest for liberty which induced France to present us with it. Where liberty is, and not where liberty used to be, is obviously the place for the statue. Let us keep it in that place, however traveled or Written for the POST-DISPATCH By Clark McAdams

Vic Miller enables us to understand why we have gossip. Gossip would have ceased long ago but for an occasional person whe believes it. You can tell Vic anything. ### 20,000 GATHER TO SEE FIRST TRAIN ON LINE INTO CITY OF SAN SALVADOR

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, March 18.—A new link in the International Railway of Central America was opened with the arrival here Thursday of the first train on the line which has been constructed between this capital and the town of Zacatecoluca, about 45 miles to the southeast. A throng of 20,000 persons gathered to witness the arrival of the train.

The International Railway of Central America is designed to link up the several Central American republics. Ultimately this railway system would form a part of the Pan-American Railway, long planned, but still far from completion, to link up the railway systems of North and South America and fill in the numerous gaps to complete a New York-Buenos Aires railway route.

> The weather conditions yesterday were fine for baseball and as a re-sult Manager Lee Fohl surprised the athletes by dividing the squad and chasing the boys through a nineinning game. The regulars had lit-tle trouble defeating the Yannigans.

Kenneth Williams and Bill Jacobha son were the stars of the game, with 13 three hits each: Williams drew a pass from Roy Davis in the opening round, but in the second the lefthanded slugger poled a double to right field. Clarence Lillpop, a right 24 hander from St. Louis was on the liams clouted a home run over the right field fence. "Kennie" came back in the eighth with a double to left against the offerings of Frank Smith, another St. Louis boy, who last year was with the Rockford. Jacobson Uses New Bat.

Bill Jacobson yesterday morning received 40 bats, his annual spring quota, The "Baby Doll" selected a few of the choice sticks and tried them out. Jacobson connected for double against Roy Davis in the third. In the fifth big Jake sent Thic Shorten back to the fence before his drive was captured. Jacobson came through with a clean sin-gle in the sixth against Lillpop. while he poled a double against Frank Smith in the eighth round.

The regulars placed snappy ball in eight innings, but fell down in the ninth when three errors were made veterans displayed wonderful ability in getting around the bases Catcher Johnny Heving being unable to check the wild parade. Manager Fohl used Wayne Wright.

Raymond Kolp and Hubert Pruett on the firing line against the Tannigans. Wright started the game and two singles and a walk was the best the youngsters could get in three in-nings. Wright exhibited a good curve With a healthy account in the and plenty of speed.

as White fought a willing, two-fisted battle that at times had Dundee hadly worried.

It was the jumping-jack style plitted against a flat-footed, stiff-punch plan of battle, though White indeed never fought so fast in his life. He was full of action last night.

Reber refereed.

The Webster quint took an early lead and as no time during the battle was it in danger of losing. Norman Stewart was the individual-star. Coppley also played a clever game and scored six points for his team. Kirkwood's only points during the first quarter came via the free throw route. Webster played a defensive game as well as the usual driving attack and life. He was full of action last night.

White's body punches unquestionably slowed up the speedy Dundee considerably, as the Chicago boy drove many a hard crack to Dundee's heart.

When Dundee was stung to the quick he tore right in for more, tooling White completely. Dundee, too, had the speed to escape punches, even when sorely tried. His punches lacked vim, of course. That is always understood in Dundee's case, but he hits so often and times his pokus so nicely that White was badly muddled when he should have been at his best.

White Larned Hard Punches.

Though outsped, White wasn't outpunched when it came to heft of the desired a defensive game as well as the usual driving attack and the Kirkwood men were unable to present the air-light guarding of the Webster five. Webster led at the playing of the Webster has playing, and Hart playing in Fayne's place, made two tailies. Webster has yet to play the Maple-wood five before the championship is modificially bestowed. Webster has hard in a chance of losing to the Maple-wood quint, however and last night's game virtually clinches the title. In case Webster should lose to Coach Fisher's men, another game with in Kirkwood would be necessary to decide the honors. Senne will be in shape to return to his station as guard professional properties. The Webster girls were able to keep.

punched when it came to heft of blows. His right did far more damage than his famous left, for the simple reason that Dendee was ever on the lookout for that left hook. He spent so much time on outpost duty that the right came sneaking through with deadly thuds time after time.

Pundee tried often to trap White into false moves, as Johnny came off the ropes but White has long since given up hope of hooking Dundee in his bounding act. Leonard is the only man who ever fairly nalled Dundee in that rubber hall act.

White, instead of trying to land simply stepped back and waited for large of the larg

G. B.—Smoking will have no effect at any time upon a woman so far as child bearing is concerned.

M. S.—If you wish to study medicine apply for admission to some medical college. They will give you all the necessary information.

MADGE.—The condition described suggests some functional or organic disturbance, just what, only an examination could determine. In this particular case a disturbance in the kidneys may be suspected.

A. B. JR.—I. Salvansan is not a specific, it is only a valuable adjunct in the treatment of syphilis.

Forty days is ample for treatment of individual cases will not be given. The earlier administered the more beneficial, although beneficial at any time.

J. R. B.—Perspiration: Any obvious deviation from health should be corrected. A level teaspoon of supply and party. Do not use both these formulas at the same time.

Among the practices indulged in it was alleged, was an allocation to each factory of a portion of the total Business of the country by mathematical division of the amount of the glass manufactured dividing into quotas and assigned to each fac-tory, and a scheme of price fixing through central selling agencies within the southern district of New York.

United States Attorney Hayward tures worthy of note in the indict-

"The first," he said, "is a deliberate scheme to control prices throughout the United States. Sec-ondly, the plan concocted by these people for the curtailment of the supply of window glass by keeping down the quantity produced by manufacturers, and thirdly, a flagrant co-operation between the winow glass manufacturers and the !abor leaders who are included in the indictment, whereby the periods of labor were reduced to about 15 weeks throughout the year.

Common Selling Agency.
"The price fixing scheme was effected through the medium of a common selling agency, the Johnston Brokerage Company. They in co-operation with the American window Glass Co., the so-called trusts, from time to time dictated the price for glass practically throughout the United States.

'The methods of reducing the sur ply was worked out in an agreement between the labor leaders representing the window glass workers and the manufacturers, which was called a wage scale. As a matter of fact its primary object was to prevent production on a large scale so as always to keep the supply of mand and the labor manufacturers to control the prices." Corporations Named in Bill. ABILITY IS NOT ENOUGH

By JOHN BLAKE.

MONG the people you find reposing on the park benches there A will be a sprinkling of men of ability You will find still more men of ability in the small-paid positions in offices and factories and other institutions Ability is commoner than is generally supposed. N-does not always bring success. It often is followed through life by failure.

For ability alone is not enough. It is the advertisement which gets a chance at a market. But unless the goods advertised are reliable. and unless they are steadily produced, the thought and money spent on the advertisement are wasted.

If you have ability, don't depend upon it to secure promotion, or even to hold your job. You may fancy that, because you can do more work with less effort than the man next you, you are certain to get along more rapidly than he can.

Perbaps you are. But unless there is character behind your ability you may not go nearly as well. Ability as we said in another article, is useless unless accompanied by dependability.

The brilliant man, whose mind operates easily, who can do good work with little effort, is too likely to presume upon his extra intelli-

He is the chap who gets down late and guits early. He is inclined to silde work be ought to do off his own shoulders, and let it fall on the shoulders of other men.

He devotes a part of his ability to the devising of schemes to get out of work. He thinks, because people admire his quickness, that he was born to succeed. That idea has wrecked thousands of careers which might otherwise have been valuable and productive. Application and effort is as necessary to the man of ability as it is to the man of ordinary mind. More mediocre people than brilliant people get the prizes in life, because there is nothing for them to do but work. They have no brilliance to attract attention to themselves. It is the dependable man who holds his job. If he has ability also he will go far. But if he has ability alone he is very likely to speed his old age conversing with the other inmates of the poorhouse. Copyright, 1922.

"Your letters have been a great comfort to me. At times, Peggy, I almost believed you cared for me. Your descriptions of your doings, your dances and your parties were delightful. I could just see you, Peggy dear, and knew exactly how you felt. Your frankness is one of your most charming qualities.

"Well, little girl, London and Paris may be all right but there is no place on earth like St. Louis. If I had been a happy bridegroom with you as the blushing bride it might have been a very delightful trip, but with you in St. Louis and me simply wandering about aimlessly the whole trip seemed wretched. This is my second trip to Europe. I wonder if I may hope to have you with me upon my third?

Maxims of a Modern Maid

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall!

A LMOST any modern girl is too kind hearted to turn a rich man down particularly when she knows that the insurance company's doctor had done so!

Whispering sweet nothings into her little pink, shell-like ear used to part of a young man's job. It is complicated today by the problem of first finding the ear in the haymow.

Women are divided in two classes—those who use the whitewash brush in discussing their husbands and those who prefer to dip it in tar.

When a girl bobs her hair her family is at least spared the wail which used to float out from Big Sister's room on party nights: "My hair acts just awfully! I can't do a thing with it!"

If those Topeka labor leaders do not succeed in making their State safe for silk stockings, we all shall know the answer, at last, to William Allen White's question: "What's the matter with Kansas?"

It must be so nice to be a man. If he begins by saying, "Of course, little girl, I'm old enough to be your father," he can go about as far as he likes and his victim is helpless to resent it.

When a woman has been in her husband's presence a whole evening and he hasn't told her that she's losing a hairpin, or that a button is missing from her glove, or that there's too much powder on her nose, she can rest in the serene conviction that she never looked better in her life. A woman sometimes marries a lover to get rid of him-and always gets rid of him when she marries him! A kiss may be the birth notice of love-or its wordless epitaph.

There is no girl in the world for me but Peggy Dayton, and no place to live but St. Louis. And after two months of dining and wining in Lon-don and Paris, I am overjoyed to get back to the things which make my life brim full of happiness. Think of me, Peggy, dear, next week strolling the deck with a cap pulled down over my eyes, my coat collar pulled up to my ears and a smile on my lips. I shall think of you, funny little you, all the way

"As always, "HARRISON TOWNLEY." This was the type of letter which distracted Peggy. It was a love let-ter which pierced into her heart. And yet she prized it. Every girl ap-preciates a genuine love letter rather than an implied or "understood"

When Townley returned what abtitude should she take? Did she really care for him

ALMOST STARTLING, REALLY.

N the days when Frank A. Munsey was in active editorial charge of his various weekly and monthly publications he had a serious-minded office boy who took things literally-and with due deliberation.

One day Congressman Thomas R. Reed, then Speaker of the House, came from Washington to New York and dropped into the office of Munsey's Magazine to see its proprietor. Between the famous publisher and the famous statesman a close bond of friendship existed—they were both sons of Maine, for one thing, and they had been intimate associates for years.

The bulky Reed stepped into the anteroom and, without giving his name, said he wished to see Mr. Munsey. The office boy told him Mr. Munsey was in conference and invited the caller to have a seat. More than half an hour passed before the caller was admitted to the inner room. Then he told Mr. Munsey how he had been kept waiting.

Indignantly the latter issued forth and descended upon the youthful keeper of the outer gates. "Do you know who that gentleman is that you've kept dawdling about here!" he demanded. "That is the Hon. Thomas B. Reed of

"I'm sorry, Mr. Munsey," said the youth. "I thought all the time if was Dr. John Hall."

"But don't you know that Dr. Hall is dead?" said Mr. Munsey "Yes, sir," said Truthful James. "That made it seem rather strange to me that he should be calling."

BULGARIAN BATTLE SONG. (A Bulgarian insurrection has resulted from an order by the Go at striking a single letter from the alphabet.)

Rise against tyranny, valiant Bulgarians! Rise and the brutal oppressor defy: Are we illiterates? Are we barbarians? Stand by your alphabet! Save jit or die! Fight for the letters the spelling book taught to us. Let not one be ernsed from the list: Strike for the culture that history brought to us Valiant Bulgarians, rise and resist.

Who are these highbrows, whose flat would dominate The methods we use when we spell our own names Teach them how strongly their laws we abominate: Make them recede from their arrogant claims. Tear down the schoolbouses, shoot up the colleges Show how a Bulgar behaves when he's mad. Scorn explanations; accept no apologies; Fight for the spelling we always have had?

Two long has peace, with unhampered impunity, Stiffed our natural craving to fight. Snatch at this great Heaven-sent opportunity. Hail it with shoutings of frantic delight. Let us to arms with accustomed agility. Never shall Bulgar be craven or slave: Never bear insult with caltiff humility. Long may our giorious alphabet wave:

Hold to our ancient and tried lexicography Silence the voice of the dull doctrinaire; Poss in his teeth his new-fangled orthography. Let him implant it on us if he dare. Rise against tyranny, nobie Bulgarians. Here is our chance, let us put it to use a war it is well to be utilitarians:
